At the end of the Second World War, America's newly acquired status of hegemonic power- together with the launch of ambitious international programs such as the Marshall Plan- significantly altered existing transatlantic relations. In this context, Italian and American architectural cultures developed a fragile dialogue characterized by successful exchanges and forms of collaboration but also by reciprocal wariness. The dissemination of models and ideas concerning architecture generated complex effects and frequently led to surprising misinterpretations, obstinate forms of resistance and long negotiations between the involved parties. Issues of continuity and discontinuity dominated Italian culture and society at the time since at stake was the possible balance between allegedly long-established traditions and the prospect of a radical rupture with recent history. Architectural culture often contributed to reach a compromise between very diverging attitudes. Situated in the larger realm of studies on Americanization, this book questions current interpretations of transatlantic relations in architecture. By reconsidering the means and effects of the dialogue that unfolded between the two sides of the Atlantic during the postwar years, the volume analyzes how cultural and formal models were developed in one context and then modified when transferred to a new one as well as the fortune of this cultural exchange in terms of circulation, amplification, and simplification.

This book is a useful reference in the field of urbanism. It explains how the contemporary city and landscape have been shaped by certain twentieth century visions that have carried over into the twenty-first century. Aimed at both students and professionals, this collection of essays on diverse subjects and cases does not attempt to establish universal interpretations; it rather highlights some outstanding episodes that help us understand why the planning culture has given way to other forms of urbanism, from urban design to strategic urbanism or landscape urbanism. Compared with global interpretations of urbanism based on socioeconomic history or architectural historiography, Urban Visions. From Planning Culture to Landscape Urbanism, aims to present the discipline couched in international contemporary debate and adopt a historic and comparative perspective. The book's contents pertain equally to other related disciplines, such as architecture, urban history, urban design, landscape architecture and geography. Foreword by Rafael Moneo.

The format of this work is richly handsome: the two-volume set contains well over 1000 high-quality illustrations. This volume is concerned with the modern movement proper, from 1914 to 1966.

Tra l'universo discorsivo – teorico, critico, storico – e quello fisico – materiale, spaziale, costruttivo – dell'architettura, la rappresentazione è chiamata a svolgere un fondamentale ruolo di raccordo, garantendo simultaneamente una doppia funzionalità: nella direzione ermeneutica ed in quella euristica. Nell'analizzarne le diverse articolazioni, il libro si propone di costruirne e descriverne i fondamenti ed i modi di appartenenza ai processi della progettazione e della documentazione critica. La rappresentazione dell'architettura si costruisce quindi quale momento essenziale nella determinazione della sua «forma» architettonica e nelle relazioni che questa instaura con l'abitare, le geometrie, e le strutture epistemologiche e poetiche del pensiero. Oltre alla nozione di forma, alla mimesis ed alle sottili questioni che questa solleva in campo architettonico, póiesis e tékhne sono infatti i principali strumenti concettuali di riferimento che il libro discute e pone alla base della rappresentazione, nel suo aspetto di luogo privilegiato di formazione del progetto e della documentazione critica.
